

Confidentiality Reminder

Thanks for your HPE service!

Before you start your next chapter, we want to remind you of your continuing confidentiality obligations to HPE.

HPE holds a great deal of sensitive and confidential information, some of which you may have seen or even developed. This is a reminder to stay true to your obligations in your HPE employment agreement by keeping this information confidential - especially regarding any future employment. And please do not transfer any confidential information to personal accounts or devices. Confidential information provides us a significant edge in the market, and we would rather not take legal action to protect it.

Please reach out if you have any questions. We wish you all the best in your next endeavor!

Best Regards,

HPE Legal